FRANCE CLAIMS RIGHT TO PROTECT ARMENIA

PARIS, Jan. 3.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The "rights" of France to guide the destinies of Syria, Lebanon and Armenia Minor were expounded to the Associated Press today by M. Gout, director for Asia in the French foreign office. M. Gout asserted that it had long been the role of France to protect the helpless peoples of the Orient and recalled interventions by France in Syria and Lebanon to defend the Christians and that France had played a great part in the defense of the Armenians in 1895 and 1896.

"France," he said, "worked not only to protect Christians but she also sent missionaries into all parts of Turkey, not for the purpose of proselytizing but for teaching and charitable work. Before the war there were French schools in all sections of Turkey, and in the great towns there were French hospitals for the care of the poor. In Syria, especially, the number of French schools was considerable. In Beirut we had a large university, and I must add that the Armenians also had one, working for the civilization of the Syrian people. A great number of physicians were bred in the French universities."

M. Gout called attention to the fact that French capital and industry had created three of the four ports of Asia Minor, and pointed to the great railways built and controlled by the French. The first road opened between Damascus and the coast, the Damascus-Beirut line, was French, he said. It was also a French railway which before the war undertook the repair of roads in many parts of the Ottoman empire, and a French company had a concession for a big railway in Armenia. The important silk industry of Syria, he added, had been fostered and developed by France.

"We may point out also the great share of France in the public debt of Turkey, which is nearly sixty per cent," he continued. "The share of England before the war was ten or twelve per cent, that of Italy nearly five per cent, and Germany had all the rest."

"There is another important phase of the question. You know about the great number of monasteries and religious institutions in Jerusalem. For our French Catholics Jerusalem is a second Rome and they always have sent money and missionaries to promote the Catholic influence in this holy town."

"This sums up a large part of the claims of France in Asia Minor, and I believe that M. Pichon, (French foreign minister) was entitled to speak of our rights there. He was the more entitled to do so in view of the abominations committed against the Armenians and Syrians by Turkish unionists early in the war."

HUN GENERALS GO UNNOTICED

MUNICH, Jan. 17.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—An example of the effect of the revolution upon the fame of German military celebrities is afforded in the fact that the retirement of two well known generals, Krafft von Dellmensingen and Count Bothmer, apparently caused not even a ripple on public consciousness. With scarcely a word of requiem these two formerly famous army leaders, both Bavarians, slipped into retirement and apparent oblivion. Even the monarchical papers announced their action only in small type paragraphs.

General Krafft formerly was chief of the Bavarian general staff and afterward until the end of the war, leader of one of Germany's most famous military units, the Bavarian Alpine corps. His corps probably saw as much heavy fighting as any in the German army. After serving as chief of staff to Crown Prince Rupprecht, General Krafft led his corps through the battles against the Italians, Serbs, Rumanians, in Macedonia and at many points on the western front, including Verdun. General Krafft came into conflict with the new government soon after the revolution which probably is one reason for his retirement.

General Count Bothmer was the only Bavarian other than the Crown Prince Rupprecht and Prince Leopold to lead a whole army. He had retired in 1909 but was recalled to active service for the war and was given command of an army corps in the Linsingen army and with it stormed Zwinin, the Russian position on the Stry river. As a reward for his success he received command of the southern army and was assigned to cover Galicia which he protected against numerous Russian assaults. It was his army that finally drove the Russians out of Galicia in the summer of 1917.

JAPS BUY UP USSURI TREES

(By Associated Press) VLADIVOSTOCK, Feb. 15.—The Japanese, profiting by the low value of the ruble, have bought up all the aspen trees in the Ussuri region and this has caused a scarcity of fuel for the use of the Ussuri railway, says the newspaper Dalekaya Okraina, which adds that all the local inhabitants have been mobilized by the Japanese to prepare the wood for export. Proposition is under consideration to increase the tax on exportation of the aspen logs so as to stop the Japanese from shipping them out of the country.

GREEKS WANT HOLIDAY IN HONOR OF AMERICA

(By Associated Press) SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 15.—A petition with a view to establishing a Green national holiday in honor of America is being broadcast throughout this country, and other nations, where there are Greeks. At a meeting held here today a committee representing the Greeks of California passed a resolution authorizing the circulation of the petition and the securing for it of as many names as possible.

Lady Rhonda, daughter of the late minister of food in Great Britain, is a thorough business woman and is a director for no less than thirty companies in which her father was interested.
